(Adam: 40yrs old physically, but some would say 20 years younger at heart. He has a photographic memory)

But remember I'm mnemonist not a mentalist, Jim. I don't predict the future I recall the past. It's a blessing and a curse I mean there's what you want to remember and there's what you want to forget. I can't forget to save my life. It's you know it's complicated, It's, I do enjoy the broad perspective I'm able to maintain, but at times I must admit I sort of dream of, I really kind of dream of of of Trying to recall the color of the sky the day my parents got divorced or the content of speech I gave at my sister's wedding or the nutritional information on the cereal box I was holding this morning and not being able to, I would give almost anything in fact, Anything I would to draw a blank, to find my hands and head full of nothing, you know, where I could start from some sort of scratch
